Wood, Anthony A., 1632-1695.

The history and antiquities of the colleges and halls in the University of Oxford: by Antony Wood, M. A. Now first published in English, from original manuscript; in the Bodleian library: with a continuation to the present time: by the editor, John Gutch ... Oxford, The Clarendon press, printed for the editor, 1786.

8 p. l. 602 p. 27 cm.
The 2d division of pt. 2 of Wood's "History and antiquities of the University of Oxford." The complete work (in English ms.) was bought in 1670 by delegates of the Oxford press, translated into Latin, and published, 1674, under a Latin title. Discontinued with the translation, Wood reworked his English ms. and bequeathed it to the University of Oxford. From this revised ms. Gutch published the present work.

The epitaphs in the old burial ground on the common were copied by W. S. Barton in 1840 and published in 1848. His copy as finally revised in 1875 is given here. The epitaphs from the Mechanic street ground were copied by a committee of the society consisting of E. B. Crane, A. A. Lovell, and F. P. Rice, who also supplied the notes. The "Addendum" (p. 125-180) was published in 1879 after the removal of all bodies from the Mechanic street ground. Many additional names were found at that time.

Founded 1852 and incorporated 1853 as Young men's library association of Worcester. In 1854 a natural history department was organized. In 1855 the Young men's rhetorical society was merged in the Young men's library association, but in 1856 the rhetorical department of the association was discontinued and the members formed a new society. In 1856 the Worcester lyceum (founded Nov. 1829) united with the Young men's library association to form the Lyceum and library association (corporate name, Worcester lyceum and library association) In 1856 the name of the association was again changed to Worcester lyceum and natural history association.
